Introducing...

Hello, I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself to you, the community. My name is Fija Schwab and I reside in the Town of Elk Point. I am employed part-time as a secretary for the F.C.S.S., I am an active member of the Lioness Club. Also, I am quite proud to say, just recently, I have become a part of the staff for the Elk Point Lakeland Review, our Weekly Paper, as a reporter.

To enable the Community to be aware of news or events that are taking place, the Elk Point Lakeland Review needs the input of you the people. If you have any news or events, etc. that you feel the Community should be aware of - please don't hesitate to call me. I can be reached at 724-4283. I would also like to add that the Elk Point Lakeland Review is offering a $50.00 reward for the best news tip of the year. Thank you in advance for your co-operation and participation.

Intersection scene of another collision

On Tuesday, November 1, at approximately 12:30 p.m., the intersection at Highways 16 and 41 was the scene of yet another accident.

An Alberta vehicle, north bound on Highway 41 proceeded to cross Highway 16 cutting in front of a second vehicle bearing Saskatchewan licence plates which was heading west on Highway 16.

Both vehicles were total right-offs. Both drivers and two passengers riding in the second vehicle sustained minor injuries.

Chuckles the Clown (seated) with Linda Briggs (Playschool Teacher) handed out treats to the children.

Hallowe'en Party

On Monday, October 31st, the Jack and Jill Playschool held a Hallowe'en Party for the children at the Community Services Building.

Thirty-two little people dressed as clowns, bunnies, pirates, pumpkins, raggedy-anns and batmans, were entertained with various games and activities provided by Linda Briggs and seven of the parents, some of whom were also in costumes.

Ghost cake, apples and orange pop were served as a snack to the children.

Chuckles the Clown, made a surprise visit delivering balloons and bags of treats, to the delight of all the little costumed characters.

The children, upon Chuckle's departure, sang a farewell song of thanks entitled "We Dress Up On Hallowe'en"

RCMP Report

Lawrence Brosseau and Dennis Brosseau are the two men connected with the beating of Mr. Aulotte. They appeared in court last week at which time charges were dismissed against Dennis Brosseau and charges were reduced to aggravated assault against Lawrence Brosseau who will appear in court on November 15th.

F.G. Miller Report

As a new feature in the F.G. Miller Report, we would like to recognize and express our appreciation for individuals who stand out as having done or been in any special or noteworthy events. This week we recognize the captains of our Junior and Senior Volleyball teams.

Joely Jenner has been voted captain of our Jr. girls' volleyball team for the second year in a row. Obviously, her teammates respect Joely's ability as a player and a leader. Joely is in grade nine, is fourteen years old, and stands 5' 7".

Murray Palamarek, captain of our Jr. high boys' team, is a natural leader, as evidenced by the fact that as a-grade eight student he was chosen to be captain. Murray is thirteen years old, although his level of maturity is that of someone much older.

Tracey Poitras, 5' 8" and in grade twelve, is the captain of our senior girls' team. She was unanimously chosen as captain by the team members, a tribute to Tracey's athletic ability and leadership skills. Tracey is seventeen years old.

Jim Mistol, a first class all-around athlete, is the captain of our Sr. boys' team this year. Jim's considerable skills and infective enthusiasm will be a great asset to the team, especially in providing an example to the younger players. Jim is seventeen years old and stands 6' 1".

Congratulations to Barbara Kulczycki who represented F.G. Miller in the provincial cross country finals in Camrose. Barbara placed 46th out of 61 competitors and knocked four minutes off her time from the zone finals. Barbara is already looking forward to next year's competition. Well done, Barb.

Winners of the Hallowe'en dress-up on Monday, October 31 were: Heather Poitras for scariest costume; Glen Scott for funniest costume; and Shannon Ballas and Lyn Frisby for most original costumes. We regret that pictures of this event are not available; there were some things that just about had to be seen to be believed.

Our chocolate sale is now well underway and if your have not yet been approached by at least one student for the purchase of either the chocolate covered almonds or the almond bark, just wait, you will be. Your support of this sale will be greatly appreciated, as the money will go towards all Student's Union activities. By the way, the chocolates and bark are great!

Computer Club at F.G. Miller

Monday during noon hours, students who are not presently taking Computer Literacy Courses at the school will have an opportunity to spend time on the keyboard.

A computer club is presently being organized. Its major goals will be to enlighten students as to the proper care and operation of equipment, use of commercially prepared programs, and the science of programming itself. Grades 7-12 are invited to participate.

We would like to remind all readers that input concerning this column would be greatly appreciated. Please feel free to give us any criticism or comments on the column in order that we may improve upon it.

Our Girls had very stiff competition resulting in no games won by them. They faced defeat at the hands of Andrew, Smoky Lake and Lamont.

Both boys' and girls' teams played exceptionally well and are to be commended on their fine display of sportsmanship.

The Elk Point Elementary and F.G. Miller High School will be hosting an author reading in school on November 16, 1983 at 9:00 a.m.

Brenda Bellingham will be reading from her book Joanie's Magic Boots to students in the Elementary School. For the Junior and Senior High School students, she will give a general talk on writing and there will be an opportunity for students to ask questions.

Brenda Bellingham was born in England. She came to Canada in 1958. She worked as a social worker and teacher up to five years ago, when she started to write full time. Her first book was Joanie's Magic Boots published by Tree Frog. She has two more books at the publishers. She is also a free lance writer for school curriculums.

I am sure this will be a very interesting presentation and will give students the chance to meet an Alberta author.

The Kates served coffee and goodies to their public last week and received many compliments. Mrs. Sumpton was one of those who expressed her appreciation and requested we publish the recipe for the pumpkin spice loaf which she found very tasty. We thought you might also enjoy the spicy pumpkin cake Mrs. Sumpton.

Pumpkin Spice Loaf (for Mrs. Sumpton)

2 C sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
2 Tbsp. wheat germ

1 C pumpkin (canned or fresh)
1 C sugar
1/2 C milk
2 eggs
1/4 C softened margarine or butter
1 C raisins

Sift flour, baking powder, soda, salt and spices: stir in wheat germ. Combine pumpkin, sugar, milk and eggs in mixing bowl. Add dry ingredients and butter: mixing only until flour is moistened. Fold in raisins or nuts. Spread batter into well greased 9 by 5 inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 65 to 70 minutes or until wooden pick comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack.

Spicy Pumpkin Cake

1/2 C packed brown sugar
1/2 C butter or margarine, softened
2 eggs
3/4 C buttermilk
1/2 C canned pumpkin
1/2 C light molasses
2 1/2 C all purpose flour
2 tsp. finely shredded orange peel
1 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. ginger

Grease and lightly flour a 13 x 19 x 2 inch baking pan. In mixer bowl cream together brown sugar and butter or margarine till light. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Combine buttermilk, pumpkin, and molasses. Thoroughly stir together flour, orange peel, soda, salt, and spices. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk mixture, beating after each addition. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 30 minutes or more until wooden pick inserted in centre comes out clean. Cool on wire rack. Serves twelve.

Pioneer Circle

by Irene Magnusson

There have been dances at the Pioneer Circle centre before, but Saturday, October 29th/83, saw the first of what is hoped will become a regular monthly feature. Approximately forty members and a few guests gathered to dance to the music of Doreen Youngmans and Harry Jenner. Their lively country and old-time tunes brought everyone to their feet, with Gerald Stults (who, with his late wife Hazel, taught old-time dance steps for years) doing a bit of 'floor managing'.

Being the long weekend of All Hallows' Eve, it was not surprising to see a few spooks wander in, do a whirl or two around the floor and disappear again into the dark night. No one took fright and all enjoyed the imaginative costumes.

Several guests came from as far away as Clondonald and Lloydminster. Coffee and goodies were served at 11 p.m.

Other activities of the seniors saw a goodly number catch the bus (Gloria Krawchuk's school bus) on Sunday, October 30th, to attend the free Business Men's Bingo in the Seniors' Centre in Bonnyville. Over 200 attended, with many visitors from other towns, as well as the 28 from Elk Point. George Mackenzie was one of the lucky ones, winning a lovely set of kitchen knives. A good time by all was reported.

Renovations to the drop-in centre getting under way includes installation of new floor covering, which will be financed in part by a

Safety Tips

This is for you children who like to climb in trees. Don't pretend you are Tarzan, you could get seriously hurt. My brother did that one time in our big maple tree. There were two branches, one a little higher than the other.

Well he would get on the higher one and dive down and grab the lower one.

So get your motors ready.

Community Schools

The Heinsburg School drew a community school symbol. Coming from the corners of the triangle are 3 hands, the communities, Heinsburg, Frog Lake, Fishing Lake. The 3 different hands size stands for all ages that can come to the school. Inside the triangle there is a circle that means Unity. The eagle in the center of the circle was chosen to be the symbol of the 3 communities. The colours are to be in green, white, and yellow.

Remembrance Day, November 11

Letter to the Editor

"We must never forget"

Dear Editor:

A few years ago, I stayed home from work because of a cold. I had the radio on and became interested in a talk show. The man conducting the show had chosen Remembrance Day as the topic to be discussed. He took the position that Remembrance Day should be dropped because it was intended to glorify war. It is time, he said, for us to forget it forever and went on to boast that he refused to buy or wear a poppy.

I was incensed and tried to phone in but was unable to get through so at last I wrote him a letter as follows:

"Canada lost some 100,000 men in the wars in which she took part during this century. None of those men were eager to be killed. All of them believed in something and believed it so sincerely and felt it to be so important that they willingly risked their lives to win it for themselves and for those they loved. Have you a cause for which you would risk your life?"

Our war dead believed that freedom is worth a high price. It seems to me that anyone who holds it in such contempt that he carefully avoids so much as a dime for a poppy, has done very little thinking about this matter. The funds raised through the sale of poppies go to assist those who made it back, but might have been better off had they not, and for the widows and orphans of those who went.

Remembrance Day is not intended, and was never meant to glamorize or glorify war. Whoever suggested that it was? Certainly not a veteran! Anyone who thinks that there is any glamor in war, not only knows nothing about it, but has evidently missed what has been written in the press or shown on T.V. about the recent fighting in Central America and the Near East. Do you think there's some kind of glory in butchered babies?

We take a day off for labor on Labor Day and no one appears to question that. Why should we not take a day off to reflect on what our wars have cost us and what they have preserved for us as well? Are not 100,000 young lives worthy of serious thought? Can you not take a few minutes off to say "Thanks"?

Is the Remembrance Service necessary?

The Annual Remembrance Day service is indeed very necessary. How else would people, like myself, who were born after the World Wars and Korean War be made aware of and understand the sacrifices made on our behalf. Especially at these services we remember with gratitude all those who have laid down their lives in service of their country. "They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old" is often quoted at Remembrance Day services. Its English author, Lawrence Binyon, was disillusioned with human society by the outbreak of World War I. Yet he lived to see the world plunged into the maelstrom of World War II.

Today, with the huge build-up of armaments, especially of nuclear weapons, it is so easy to despair of the future. Our Canada is benevolent and intelligent, yet there is still corruption and crime and unfairness. We have it presented to us daily through our news media. I'm sure all surviving veterans remain deeply perplexed why this modern era is so filled with their rebellion and lack of forgiveness and, above all, the unwillingness to understand that in the past our nation was required to make the personal sacrifices it did.

We must remember always that we rob our honoured dead and surviving veterans of victory unless we carry on the race, pursue the struggle and do what they would have done to make this a better world so that the seeds that breed new wars will find no fertile ground.

Joining veterans in attendance at Remembrance services is a tangible way of expressing our thankfulness, gratitude and appreciation for the peace and freedom so many take for granted.

Remembrance Day should not become just another holiday, but must remain a day of memorial, a day of meeting, an opportunity for us to examine our own lives to find out whether we are worthy of the sacrifices made on our behalf and to determine our own commitment to world peace.

Attending a Remembrance service may jog our memory and help rekindle in us the sense of unity the wartime Canadians knew. At this time, when everyone wears a poppy and stands in silence, it is like "thank you" to those who fought and died for us. We honour their memory and cherish the freedom they bought so dearly.

*Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break but all in vain.*

War's Children

The children — deserted,
forgotten,
thin clothing.

Terrible dreams
of war,
soldiers,
and weapons.

They suffered too —
of hunger,
disease,

No parents —

not anymore —
Just loneliness

They cried — those children who were left to suffer,
to die.

What the Poppy Reminds Me Of

When I was younger, I did not realize what the poppy represented. I thought it was simply something you wore to celebrate a special holiday. Before long I found out that it is a symbol of peace and courage, a symbol to remind us of the heroes of our country who died to give us the freedom we have today.

The poppy also brings to mind Flanders Fields where this flower blooms and gently sways in the breeze, while standing guard over the graves of the soldiers buried there. It quietly salutes the 100,000 Canadians who never returned from the wars because they gave up the precious gift of life so that we might enjoy peace in our country. The bright red colour of the poppy is a silent reminder of the young blood that was spilled in the battlefields in the giving of this gift.

The poppy not only reminds me of the ones who died, but also of the ones who came back with the sad memories of a cruel war. It also helps me think of the wives and children who somehow had to go on living without a husband or father.

But above all, this red symbol makes me aware of the wonderful gift "Canada" has been to me. When I arrived from Vietnam, my new country welcomed me with a gift of freedom, without the worry about war. I now have the freedom to enjoy all the good things I received. I can go to school to learn what I choose, and not just what the government tells me that I must learn. I can now go to the church of my choice and worship without fear. I have the security now that I will not be conscripted into the army when I am of age. I can look forward to a bright and successful future.

As a new Canadian I proudly wear my poppy on Remembrance Day and take a little time, along with the other Canadians, to say "thank you", with a prayer that this freedom will last forever. This poppy reminds me to work to guard this peace and freedom, because the men who died so we could live freely, would not want even one person to die in war again. It calls me to develop a sense of responsibility, to work for understanding and good will everywhere, so that there will be a better future for all. In this way we can add our voices to those of the veterans and say:

*"They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old;
Age shall not weary them nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them."*

Speak not of War

I know not of war, for I was far from born when it's icy hand gripped each heart, and tore our countrymen from their land.

I saw not, what ravages were left, what cities were destroyed, what homes were left buried under the sea of bombs.

I heard not, the screams of human life which pleaded to exist, the screams of innocent children, who could not fathom what it all was for.

I felt not, the pain, the despair, the loneliness, the fear of life, of death.

And I do not understand.

But I see those who are left of the war, those who knew the war, those who saw the war, those who heard the screams, and felt the pain.

And I watch them as they stand alone on corners, and give their priceless poppies, and I look into their eyes, and on their faces. And I understand, for deep within their eyes they seem to say,

"Speak not of battles lost or won, but remember those who fought them for you. Speak not of death but remember the dead. Speak not of war, but of glory, our glory, and the glory of our purpose. Speak not
of war."

Remember the Children — They Died Too

It is a cool November morning in a little village in Holland. People are hurrying along the little cobblestone streets. Everyone is carrying their few belongings as they try to escape from the war that is approaching their village. There is noise of guns and hand grenades off in the distance.

In a neatly kept house there is a woman sitting at a table, her hands folded in prayer. In front of her is a picture of her husband who has gone to fight in the war. She remembers how hard they had to work and save to buy their little house. How they watched the tulips grow and bloom and then fade away. She remembers all the happy times they had together and now it is all gone. Tears begun to stream down her face.

She looks across the room. On the cleanly swept floor is a little girl playing happily with an old rag doll. She gently hugs it and sings lullabys to it. She is so young that she is not aware of the happenings that are going on outside.

Suddenly the noise gets louder and louder. The little girl terrified and frightened runs to her mother. The mother holds on to her daughter tightly. The little girl clasps on to her rag doll, afraid to let it go. There is nowhere to hide, nowhere to go, nowhere to run. Bombs are falling outside, people are screaming, running frantically about, then in a flash, it is all over.

It is night. The stars are twinkling in the clear sky. The moon dimly shines upon the little village in Holland below. All that is left is a scene of devastation and destruction. People, still shocked and terrified, huddle together, not to escape the chilling cold but to comfort each other. In the distance the noise of the guns, the rumble of the tanks gradually fades away.

Amidst the smoldering rubble of a once proud home there lies a little, tattered rag doll. Now there are no more tears, there is no more joy, there is no more laughter, — only silence.

The Poppy

The Royal Canadian Legion has been responsible for distributing poppies since 1926.

History of the Poppy

Why was the poppy--the flower of forgetfulness--chosen as the symbol of remembrance for Canada's war dead?

A writer first made the connection between the poppy and battlefield deaths during the Napoleonic wars of the early 19th century, remarking that fields that were barren before battle exploded with the blood-red flowers after the fighting ended.

Lt.-Col. John McCrae, the Canadian doctor who wrote the poem IN FLANDERS FIELDS, made the same connection 100 years later, and the scarlet poppy quickly became the symbol for soldiers who died in battle.

Prior to the First World War few poppies grew in Flanders. During the tremendous bombardments of that war the chalk soils became rich in lime from rubble, allowing 'popover rhoeas' to thrive. When the war ended the lime was quickly absorbed, and the poppy began to disappear again.

However, thanks to the millions of Canadians who wear the flowers each November, the little red plant has never died. And neither have Canadians' memories for 114,000 of their countrymen who died in battle.

The Royal Canadian Legion has been responsible for the distribution of poppies since 1926, the year after it was formed. In 1982 more than 12 million poppies were distributed, raising almost $3 million to aid veterans and their dependents.

Functions of the Poppy

The Royal Canadian Legion's poppy fund has a three-fold purpose: it provides employment for disabled veterans and their widows, money for veterans' welfare, and a simple but meaningful way to remember approximately 114,000 Canadians who died in the First and Second World Wars and the Korean conflict.

Poppies and wreaths are made at Vetcraft Shops in Toronto and Montreal. About 30 workers are employed at the two plants and another 75 work from their homes. They produce more than 12 million poppies and thousands of wreaths and crosses annually.

Where does the money raised through their distribution go? It could provide bursaries for children of ex-service personnel, or help operate a Legion Service Bureau that assists veterans in making pension claims. It could also be used to operate day-care centres for seniors, or it might help needy ex-servicemen in other Commonwealth or allied countries. There are as many uses as there are veterans.

Most importantly, wearing a scarlet poppy is a way to remember the thousands of young Canadians who died years ago on the sea, in the air and on foreign battlefields from France and Africa to Korea.

It says we haven't forgotten.

Distribution of the Poppy

As the years since the First World War ended have multiplied, so has distribution of the poppy: from a few thousand in 1921, the first year they were distributed in Canada, to three million in 1938, 4.8 million in 1954 and more than 12 million today.

Over the years, the poppy's function has also changed. During the 1930's their production employed many handicapped veterans when unemployment was high because of the Depression. Funds raised through their sale provided social assistance for unemployed veterans and their families at a time when few government benefits were available.

In the 1980's disabled veterans and their dependants still make poppies, but the funds raised supply a much broader range of community services: Meals-on-Wheels, day-care centres for seniors, transportation for veterans, Legion Service Bureaus and so on.

The funds are still vital. Although the Second World War ended almost 40 years ago, Canada still has more than 700,000 veterans surviving from the 1.6 million who enlisted during the First and Second World War and the Korean conflict.

The average age of Second World War veterans is 64, and as they retire a wide range of services will be required. Poppy funds will help provide them.

The Symbolic Poppy

The poppy, an international symbol for those who died in war, also had international origins.

Made famous by a Canadian doctor-poet during the First World War, it was first worn as a symbol by an American, and to raise funds by a French woman.

The doctor, Lt.-Col. John McCrae of Guelph, Ont., assured the poppy's place in history when he wrote IN FLANDERS FIELDS in 1915.

Three years later an American, Moina Michael, was working in a New York City YMCA canteen when she started wearing a poppy in memory of the millions who died on the battlefield. During a 1920 visit to the United States a French woman, Madame Guerin, learned of the custom. On her return to France she decided to use handmade poppies to raise money for destitute children in war-torn areas of the country. In November 1921, the first poppies were distributed in Canada. The rest is history.

Shortly after its formation in November 1925, the Royal Canadian Legion assumed responsibility for the distribution of poppies. Almost 60 years later, more than 1,500 Legion branches are still doing the job. One indication of their success is that as the years since the wars ended increase, so does poppy distribution. In 1982 more than 12 million were distributed, raising almost $3 million to help veterans and their dependants.

In Flanders Fields

*In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly Scarce heard amid the guns below.*

*We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.*

*Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.*

John McCrae.

"Never forget..."

The wars Canada fought were not "nonsense" unless you hold that liberty and fair play are idiotic concepts. Those wars were, unfortunately, necessary. For heaven's sake, man! if you can't remember --think! A great philosopher once said that the nation that forgets its past is condemned to relive it. Surely we want to avoid that!

I find it very difficult to comprehend how anyone could think so superficially as to imagine that Remembrance Day has as its object the glorification of war and am very sorry that such shallow thinking should have been accorded so much public exposure. Surely you could have had a countering point-of-view to be aired at the same time?

I lost a lot of acquaintances in World War II, several of them close friends. They were not looking for glory. They were not blood-thirsty monsters. They were fine, warm humane people. They didn't want to die but they were well aware of the risks they ran. They were prepared to pay as pay they did. I remember them at least once a year. Is that so silly?

I was lucky. They paid the price for me and I'm grateful.

The idea of forgetting the war because it was an unpleasant experience, makes no more sense to me than does deliberately forgetting to take care in crossing streets or in handling fire just because we have had unpleasant experiences with them in the past.

We would be inclined to rate as stupid, a child who seems unable to learn how to play with a toy without injuring himself. What then should we think of an adult or a nation that can't remember (even deliberately strives to forget) the consequences of war?

Do you suppose unpleasant things will cease to happen if we just forget or ignore them? In my view, that certainly would be nonsense.

Next year, buy a poppy. The Legion doesn't use the money to glorify anything. You might even spring for the price of a cup of coffee when you get that poppy. You owe those service men and so do we all. The sad thing is that they bought our freedom and good life at a high price - a very high price - and nothing we can ever do or say can fully repay that debt; but we can try."

We should not forget. We must never forget. Most of us understand the importance of remembering, but as the King said in "Through the Looking Glass" ... 'The horror of that moment...I shall never forget.' to which the Queen replied, 'You will though if you don't make a memorandum of it.'

Let us all make a memorandum of it, then...Lest We Forget.

Yours sincerely
Lloyd Seath

MLA Report

by John Drobot

The Second Session of the 20th Legislature of Alberta opened October 19th. It promises to be interesting as many important decisions lay ahead of us. The economy, healthcare, agricultural land use, and worker's health and safety compensation will be major areas of concern.

Provincial Treasurer Lou Hyndman has announced that Alberta income tax will increase from 38.5% to 48.3% of "Federal basic tax" effective January 1984. Low income Albertans will continue to benefit from the Selective Tax Reduction program, which has operated since 1975. We will continue to have the lowest taxes in Canada.

As a result of the increase, a family of four with a gross income of $30,000 will pay $182 more tax per year. A single person earning $15,000 will pay $81 more per year.

Unless we are able to control escalating health care and education costs, further tax increases may be considered. While the size of government has been trimmed down where possible, expenditure levels cannot be turned around quickly. An encouraging sign is that the government's rate of growth has been cut by 50 per cent in the current budget. We must live within our means, as billion dollar deficits cannot be sustained by a population of 2.4 million.

Advanced Education has approved $29.1 million in additional funding for the 1983-84 Students Finance Board budget. This brings the government's total budget for the Board to $56.9 million for the year. The bulk of the additional funds will go to four major grant programs.

Roughly, 6,000 rural students will receive Alberta Educational Opportunity Equalization Grants to offset the costs which exceed maximum loan levels. 2,500 disadvantaged Albertans will receive Maintenance Grants to help them cope with their educational and living costs. 8,000 graduates will benefit from the provinces' Remission Program that will help in the repayment of loan obligations.

As of this month, the Motor Vehicles Division will initiate several new programs designed to provide more efficient service to Alberta drivers. A staggered vehicle renewal program will divide the over 2 million registrations currently renewing at one time into 12 groups with different renewal months. New licence plates will be issued. These plates may be obtained now, if you so desire, by sending in the application that has recently been mailed to most homes. Several other cost-saving programs have or will be implemented. Further information can be provided at any local issuing office.

Three thousand competitors, three thousand volunteers and hundreds of visitors participated in the 1983 Alberta Summer Games in the Mountain View County. Fifty thousand Albertans competed in the playoffs leading to the games.

Participants of the 1983 Summer Games in the St. Paul Constituency were as follows. Although medals won are not listed, all were winners.

Congratulations!

Chamber News

The Elk Point Chamber of Commerce held its bi-monthly luncheon meeting Wednesday, November 2 with eighteen in attendance.

With regards to Derwent's request at the last meeting for some of Elk Point's territory, President Allen Warawa had contacted Canadian Consumer and Corporate Affairs in Ottawa as well as the Alberta Chamber of Commerce in Edmonton. He discovered that Chamber borders are set as a technicality for incorporation purposes only. Derwent has proceeded with incorporation as borders stand, therefore any letter from Elk Point Chamber is after the fact.

Derwent's Chamber will be registering their displeasure at the closing of Alberta Wheat Pool's elevator in Derwent. It is felt that Elk Point's, Clondonald's, Vermilion's or Myram's elevators can service Derwent. It was motioned and passed that Elk Point's Chamber send a letter to the Alberta Wheat Pool stating such concerns as added pressure to Elk Point's elevator with copies going to the Derwent Chamber and Village Council.

It was reported that on January 15, the Gulf Bulk Station in Elk Point is to be closed. A letter of support for its continuance was sent by the Chamber but it was decided the station would close with delivery made from St. Paul. Further action was decided on with a committee formed to look into the matter further. Appointed Chamber Representatives from town council are Ed Buck and Gordon McCuaig.

Discussion followed re a tourist's book, interchange between Alberta Tourism, Alberta Small Business and hospital staffs to discuss doctors to Northern Alberta, news from town council and proposed 1984 membership fees.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prusak have celebrated the event of their Golden Anniversary in the Hall on November 5th, and all good wishes go their way from their many friends in the Pioneer Circle.

Remembrance Day,

November 11th, will see the Pioneer Circle ladies serving lunch supplied by the Legion to guests attending the services at the Cenotaph situated beside the hall. Outdoor ceremonies at 5 minutes to 11 a.m. will be followed by an indoor inter-denominational service of Remembrance, with lunch to follow. The services and fellowship are open to all.

The next dance at the Pioneer Circle centre will be held Saturday, November 26th/83. All members and their guests are welcome. Dance starts at 8 p.m.

President Marg Clark is pleased to say that the Appreciation Certificates for past officials have now been all presented. These members are: Anne Kates; Arthur Miller; L. Garneau; Dan Malachowski; Wm. Barling; M. Smith; Ann Habiak; Nellie Merrick and Geo. Jacobson. Their good works have not gone unnoticed.
